Dear Members and Colleagues,

Greetings from the Indian Confederation of Medical Laboratory Science (ICMLS)

As you know, the International Federation of Biomedical Laboratory Science (IFBLS) is a Global voice of Medical Laboratory Professionals, representing more than 258,000 Biomedical Laboratory Scientists/Professionals worldwide through national professional associations/societies from more than 32 countries. ICMLS is a member Association of IFBLS.

All members of IFBLS celebrate International Biomedical Laboratory Science Day (IBLS) on the 15th April of every year. The theme for IBLS Day-2023 is "Guardians of Quality and Patient Safety: Biomedical Laboratory Scientists." This theme is centric to everything we perform on day to day basis. IFBLS initiated IBLS Day in 1996 at the IFBLS World Congress in Oslo, Norway, to promote and celebrate the critical role of Biomedical Laboratory personnel in the diagnostic and preventive health care system.

IBLS Day aims to increase awareness of Biomedical Laboratory Scientists' role in providing quality health care. Biomedical Laboratory Scientists play a crucial role in diagnosis, quality development, assurance, treatment, research, and development in the modern medical sciences.

ICMLS is joins hands with the global Medical Laboratory Science fraternity in celebrating 15th April as International Biomedical Laboratory Science Day (IBLS Day), an important day to promote and celebrate ourselves as a profession.

We are pleased to share greetings from IFBLS President Marie Culliton through this video link <https://youtu.be/YR3eZ7TMDcY> with a written statement.

Posters are available on <https://www.ifbbs.org> and <http://icmls.com> to assist you in celebrating IBLS-2023. This year's poster encompasses the entire spectrum of a sample journey from the patient through the laboratory with the best methods and quality assurance to ensure the correct result, thus enabling the clinician to diagnose the disease leading to quality healthcare delivery to the patient.

We wish you all a happy International Biomedical Laboratory Science Day! 15th April.
